Americold Awarded Unilever's 2009 Temperature Controlled Distribution Center of the Year Award

ATLANTA, Georgia (June 11, 2010) – Unilever announced that the Americold operations in Sikeston, MO were awarded the 2009 Temperature Controlled Quality and Excellence Distribution Center of the Year Award. According to Karl Smith, Manager of Temperature Controlled and Multi-Vendor Distribution Centers for Unilever, selection for this annual award is based on “KPI performance, cost containment and overall commitment to GREAT customer service to Unilever and our customers.” Smith offers a sincere thanks to Americold for their dedication, vitality and commitment to meeting the everyday needs of Unilever and their customers.

Americold's President Operations, Brent Sugden was on hand to receive the award on behalf of Americold. “This is a very meaningful recognition and I congratulate the Sikeston team for the service they provide at such a high level of performance, being able to do it consistently, and cultivating strong relationships with Unilever.” stated Mr. Sugden.

This award is sincerely appreciated by Americold and is a great tribute to the late Larry Jones, former Sikeston General Manager, who opened and managed the facility for 12 years. Jones passed away in June of last year after a total of 33 years with the Company. “I know Larry would be very proud”, added Jeff Hartman, current GM.
